

---

---

To my parents, who gave me life and strength; to my beloved, who brings stillness in my torrential storm; and to those who have endured – the fallen, the widowed, the forgotten, whose stories deserve to be remembered and retold.

May this work stand as a small act of remembrance, and a humble offering to those who came before us.